Speakers:

Peter J. Hatch is the author of several books on the gardens of Thomas Jefferson's Monticello, where he served as Director of Gardens and Grounds for 35 years.

Presently he gardens and botanizes from his home on Lickinghole Creek in Crozet, Virginia and travels extensively to promote his latest work, 'A Rich Spot of Earth': Thomas Jefferson's Revolutionary Garden at Monticello.

Marta McDowell lives, gardens and writes in Chatham, New Jersey. She is the author Beatrix Potter's Gardening Life and Emily Dickinson's Gardens.

Marta received a Historic Preservation Award from the Garden Club of America in 2014 for her work on historic gardens in New Jersey. Her husband, Kirke Bent, summarizes her biography as "I am therefore I dig."

Jay Coy is an heirloom tomato addict! He grows red, purple, green, white, orange, and even striped tomatoes, as many as 50 or more different varieties of heirloom tomatoes every year.

Jay is the operator of Jackson 'Maters, a small farm in North Jackson, Ohio. Here along with Heirloom Tomatoes he grows a wide variety of produce.

Late registration will be accepted after February 7, 2015, if space is available, at a late registration fee of $55.00. No refunds after February 1.

Registrations are transferrable.
