

Stark County MASTER GARDENER VOLUNTEERSPlant Propagation with a Purpose

Are you prepared to accept the challenge? Plant propagation can be an enjoyable activity and a way to produce new plants to share with friends, family and Master Gardener plant sales! Join us to learn more about the process of dividing herbaceous perennials and the propagation of woody plants.

Jacqueline Kowalski
Ann Chanon

Jacqueline is the Agriculture and Natural Resources Extension Educator for Summit County. Plant propagation has always been part of her career and she enjoys dividing perennials to increase the number of plants for her personal flower farm.

Ann is the Agriculture and Natural Resources Extension Educator for Lorain County where she specializes in home horticulture, plant propagation, woody ornamentals and small fruits.
